THE BUZZ ABOUT SOAPNUTS

LaundryTree Soap Nuts are a unique laundry solution — far different than anything most people have ever heard of or considered. Of course it's only natural for you to wonder if they are as fabulous as we claim! Don't take our word for it — check out these fantastic unsolicited reviews, provided by REAL people who tried Soap Nuts in REAL household situations. We think you'll notice a common theme: CLEAN!

“Everything came out completely clean. And after the dryer, I gave them a sniff test. NO smell, just the faintest whiff of those essential oils. For real. A few days later after sleeping on her soapnut-washed crib sheet, I looked at my baby girl, and the tiny, perpetual patch of eczema she'd had beneath her left eye was gone. It could be a total coincidence, I know. But I was impressed.” – Daily Grommet

“A few weeks ago I tried a detergent whose smell I did not like. I never used it again, but clothes keep coming out of the dryer smelling like the foul-smelling detergent. I gathered up some of these clothes, and some really stinky towels (including some bath puppets that were never hung to dry). I split this load in half and washed half with my regular bargain detergent, and half with soapnuts. I used my regular “dangerous chemicals in a cute little spray bottle” pretreater with both loads. Stain-wise, both loads came out clean. But smell-wise, there was no comparison. The load washed with my regular detergent still carried a bouquet of aromas, including the faint linger of towel funk. But the soapnuts load, it didn't smell at all. I mean, it didn't smell like anything! You know what that means, right? Not towel funk cover-up, but no towel funk at all! It even removed the final traces of the foul-smelling detergent.” – Kingdom Twindom

“We have been using them for two weeks now and can't tell any difference from our previous detergent. These work very well for my dirty kids dirty clothes. I like that it is obvious that they are natural.” – Type A Mom

“I was skeptical that they could do the trick on my boys' dirty clothes. One of my sons has very sensitive skin so I routinely use dye and fragrance-free detergents. For this reason alone, I was willing to give the soapnuts a try. I did a load, and then another and then another. Once I went a little crazy and sprinkled one of the essential oils on to the little canvas pouch. My sheets came out with just the slightest hint of scent. And the unexpected bonus: My laundry room smelled amazing!” – ManicMommies.com

“Tried the soap nuts. Sure seemed to work!” – @guykawasaki

“I'm excited to say that my laundry came out clean! I put some tough stuff in there too, to give the soapnuts a real trial – my stinky Bikram clothes came out smelling fresh, as did the armpits of a polypropylene wicking shirt I wore cross-country skiing this weekend. The soapnut smell didn't transfer to my clothes – in fact they have no real smell, which is how clean clothes should be, no?” – TinyChoices.com

“CLEAN and FRESH! When I opened the dryer door, [the stinky cloth diapers] didn't smell!! I was actually able to put them up to my nose and not mildly gag! We all know how enhanced the sense of smell of pregnant ladies are and my husband always said I can give a bloodhound a run for his money. Therefore, soapnuts pass the test with flying colors! I recommend you all try them. Hurray for soap nuts!” – The Simple Life

“When my Soap Nuts arrived, I instantly fell in love with the packaging.... So I gave them a try, and can happily say that all of our clothes got fresh & clean!” – Mama Goes Green

“We now use them as our everyday laundry soap, because they're really not that expensive. You can use the same Soap Nuts several times, so a 500g bag will last almost five months. Break it down, and it's less expensive than traditional detergents. Seriously, I love this stuff.” – SimpleMom.net

“I felt compelled to sniff every item as it came out of the washing machine. And you know what? They just smelled clean. Fresh. That's the only way I can describe the scent.” – FakePlasticFish.com

“They clean your clothes without any preservatives, which is fantastic for a person like me who happens to be allergic to everything known to man. My kids are too, so I'm always on the hunt for detergents that won't bother their skin, and they're biodegradable. What's not to love!” – Petitefant.com
